

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 A light polymerization device particularly suitable for the polymerization of dental material. The device includes a housing, a fan installed in the housing, the fan being in particular an axial fan, and a light source which emits polymerization radiation. The rotational axis of the fan extends transversely to the emission axis of the light source, and the air outlet of the fan can be on a side of the housing.